

There is a store in Vermont called "Mach's General Store". The sign the store manager has hanging behind the register says:

"Everything we have is on the shelves.
What you don't see don't exist.
We don't give credit."

Truly the commercial counterpart to Mach's epistemology!

Acknowledgment:

I owe the picture and the report of the sign to Alisa Bokulich. She says that it came to her by way of John Stachel. Thanks to John and Alisa!
